About the child/children: G3 is a creative and active child with a love for painting, occasional drawing, climbing, and soft toys. These interests reflect her vibrant personality and blend of creativity, energy, and a need for comfort and imaginative play. She thrives when engaging in activities that challenge her mind and body, while also valuing routines that provide emotional and physical balance.

The ideal Sennie for this role will not only nurture G3's current interests but also actively support her ongoing development and overall well-being. This includes engaging her in exercises designed to enhance motor skills, coordination, and physical strength, as well as maintaining her strict GAPS diet by assisting with food preparation and related tasks. The Sennie will receive training or guidance to implement therapies such as laser therapy and vagal stimulation, both of which are integral to G3's personalised development plan. They will also focus on key growth areas, such as improving G3's focus, fostering emotional regulation, and building her self-confidence. By establishing a structured yet engaging environment, the Sennie will ensure activities are enjoyable, meaningful, and tailored to G3's unique needs. This role requires a patient, proactive, and compassionate individual who is dedicated to supporting G3's progress and well-being in all areas of her life.

Who would suit this role:

- Experience working with children under five, particularly those with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) and non-verbal communication needs.
- Demonstrates kindness, compassion, and a genuine passion for supporting G3's growth and well-being.
- Patient and empathetic, with a proactive approach to understanding and addressing G3's unique needs.
- Skilled in supporting non-verbal communication through methods such as visual aids, sign language, or alternative communication techniques.
- Willing and able to implement exercises and treatments as guided by professionals to support physical and developmental progress.
- Knowledge of or willingness to learn about special dietary requirements, including meal planning and preparation.
- Ensures mealtime is a positive and engaging experience for G3.
- Capable of fostering a nurturing and stimulating environment that promotes learning, social interaction, and enjoyment.
- Sensitive to G3's individual pace and preferences during activities.
- Strong ability to collaborate effectively with parents and other professionals involved in the child's care.
